

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, July 14. 1714.

London, July 14. Yesterday arrived the Mail due from Holland.

Petersbourg, June 29.

“WE have received the welcome News of his Czarian Majesty's Arrival with his Fleet at Revel the 22d of this Month. He found there 6 Men of War of the Line, bought in England and Holland, so his Fleet consists now of 17 Ships of the Line besides Frigates. The Swedish Fleet is at Hango 12 Leagues distant from Revel, and is said to consist of 16 Men of War. 'Twas believed here that the Swedes would have opposed his Czarian Majesty's Passage to Revel; but it seems they find their Account better in making War upon Merchant-Ships, of which they have already taken a considerable Number. Our Transports are likewise arrived at Elfsingfos, so that we shall soon hear of Action on that Side.

From the Hague Courant, dated July 20.

Vienna, July 7. The Deputies of the Protestant Communities in Hungary, continue in this City, without hope of obtaining a favourable Answer to the Representation of their Grievances; they being told hitherto that their Demands are contrary to the Treaty made at Oedenbourg; and that they should not make their Complaints here, but to the Diet at Presbourg. In the mean while the Turks seem to take Umbrage more and more at the incamping of the Imperial Troops in Hungary, and the strengthening the fortified Places in Transilvania; wherefore they are hard at work in repairing the Fortifications of Belgrade and of some other Places in Bosnia. The Marquis de Prié arriving here the 4th Instant from his Ambassy at the Court of Rome, had Audience the same Day of the Emperour, to whom he gave an Account of his Transactions, with which his Imperial Majesty expressed himself well satisfied. 'Tis now talked, that our Court, on the Instances of this Minister, is disposed to restore Comacchio to the Pope, on the following Conditions. 1. That such Subjects of the Ecclesiastical State, who might in any wise have contributed to the Reduction of the said Town, shall have intire Amnesty granted them. 2. That the Pope shall not ask any Reimbursement for the Damages done by the Imperial Troops there. And 3. That his Holiness shall do the Duke of Modena Justice on his Pretensions. The two first Conditions are said to be agreed to by the Pope already, but the last not; tho' 'tis not believed the Court of Rome will on that Account delay longer to accomodate this Affair. Prince Eugene is making Preparation to go to Baden.

Ausbourg, July 12. All the three Colleges have passed a Resolution, to remove the Diet from hence back to Ratisbon in the Month of August next.

From the Hague Courant, dated July 20.

Baden, July 11. The French Plenipotentiary the Count du Luc, being recovered of an Indisposition that held him a few Days, assists as before in the Conferences held with the Imperial Ministers. Those Conferences are now held but thrice a Week, and 'tis said the Bavarian Minister Baron Malknecht, since the Expresses came back from Vienna and Paris, is admitted to them: The Affair now treating of, is the Restitution (or Reimbursement) of the Jewels, Moveables, and other Effects, which fell into the Emperour's Hands when the Elector lost his Country. The French and Bavarian Ministers demand, that the Restitution should be according to the Inventory which his Electoral Highness caused to be taken before the last War broke out; and the Imperialists insist that no other Restitution can be asked, than of what was found in the Palaces, Seats, &c, at the Conquest of that Country, and of which a List was at that time transmitted to Vienna by the Emperour's Commissaries. The Difference between the Inventories of the two Parties is very wide, and therefore this Point cannot soon be settled, though it be almost the last Article relating to the Restitution of the Electorate of Bavaria: When this Affair is finally decided, all Diligence will be used to bring the Negotiation of Peace to a Conclusion within the time limited by the Treaty of Rastat, but no general Conference will be opened, till the Work be as good as ended. The Marquis du Luc, Son of the Plenipotentiary of that Name, is come hither with his Lady, whom he married at Paris about a Month ago, to see his Father.

From the Hague Courant, dated July 20.

Leipsich, July 12. 'Tis reported, that a Saxon living within 5 Leagues from hence, has invented a perpetual Motion.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated July 20.

Deux-ponts, July 10. On Thursday last in the Afternoon arrived here King Stanislaus with a Retinue of 68 Persons, being received with a tripple Discharge of all our Cannon. His Majesty was met by Baron Stralenheim, Governour of this Dutchy, and by the chief Officers of our Garrison, at Stambach; and this Prince has taken up his Lodgings in our Castle.

Hague, July 20. The 17th the King of Prussia arrived at Cleves. The Earl of Clarendon proceeded from hence Yesterday for the Court of Hanover.

Paragraph of a Letter from Cadiz, dated the 11 of June 1714.

“Here is an Order for the Custom-House to dispatch our Goods as before, with which the Commerce are very well pleased; and 'tis kind in the Spaniard not to take the Advantage of the Treaty, tho' in reality too heavy Duties would rather lessen than increase the King's Revenue.
